Tupelo-Lee Humane Society to Work with The McCarty Company to Construct New Animal Shelter and Spay Clinic

The Tupelo-Lee Humane Society (TLHS) is pleased to announce that it will be working with The McCarty Company to construct a new animal shelter and spay clinic. The new facility will be constructed on the approximately two acres of land located on Cliff Gookin Boulevard in Tupelo that was generously donated by Big Oaks Farm, LLC in August 2011.

“We are very excited to be working with The McCarty Company to begin the process of constructing a new animal shelter and spay clinic,” said Amanda Wallis, president of the TLHS board of directors. “We’ve been planning this facility for quite some time and are very encouraged to be one step closer to achieving our goal. This facility will make such a positive difference in the lives of the animals we care for.”

Richard McCarty, CEO of The McCarty Company, also expressed his enthusiasm about this project. “The McCarty Company-Design Group is extremely pleased to have been selected by the Tupelo-Lee Humane Society to design their new shelter. As a true animal lover, I consider it an honor to help create a healthy and efficient environment for both the animals and the staff that care for them. We look forward to working with them to achieve their goals.”

The McCarty Company has engaged the consulting services of Animal Arts, a nationally recognized specialist in animal shelter design located in Boulder, Colorado, to assist in the design of the new TLHS facility.

The TLHS board of directors will work closely with The McCarty Company and Animal Arts over the next several months to develop architectural renderings of the new TLHS facility. Donations for the facility are already being accepted. Those interested in helping fund the building of this facility may send donations to TLHS c/o: Building Fund, P.O. Box 1185, Tupelo, MS 38802.
